BACHELOR OF DESIGN AND VISUAL COMMUNICATION

Design Project by: Elaiza Marie Lubao

What you need to know about this program

If you're drawn to the idea of a profession where your imagination is your only limitation, then chances are Design and Visual Communication will be your type of career.

This is much more than visual aesthetics, providing you with a detailed understanding and hands-on experience of the role of visual design in the contemporary world. You'll also explore branding and identity design, online and print design, digital image-making and user-centred design. You'll create targeted designs with a particular audience in mind, and develop the skills to come up with creative solutions to complex problems in almost any context.

Your growth and development will be assessed holistically based on your engagement with and completion of industry style projects and you'll learn to apply a strategic, entrepreneurial eye to your clients' needs. You will build up a diverse portfolio of work to share with potential employers and clients.

This program will allow you to flourish in a rapidly changing world, giving you the skills to apply design-led solutions to a wide range of communication challenges. With a design qualification, you could work in large corporations, small agencies, as a freelancer or as part of entrepreneurial project teams in any industry.
