What you need to know about this course:

By the end of the camp, students will gain a strong foundation in the fundamentals of filmmaking, including storytelling, cinematography, and editing. They will understand the key stages of the filmmaking process, from pre-production to post-production, and develop an appreciation for visual storytelling. Students will collaborate to create their own short films, exploring the art of scriptwriting, shot composition, and directing. Through hands-on experience, they will also learn basic editing techniques using Adobe Premiere Pro, enabling them to bring their creative visions to life on screen.
